May Day Guards Mass To Prevent Uprisings Over France And Cuba

In Paris Premier Doumergue Takes No Chances and Orders Biggest Mobilization Since War—Havana Also "On Taps."

Paris, April 30 (AP)—The French government massed its troops today to guard May Day uprisings.

Premier Doumergue, determined to prevent any revolutionary movement arising in the general strike called for tomorrow, ordered the biggest mobilization of armed forces in France since the World War.

He warned that rebellion might lead to "foreign invasion."

A part of what might be expected tomorrow was seen at Mantes during the night when 1,000 stone-throwing "anti-Fascists" battled police for five hours in the streets of that ancient city, about 10 miles from Paris.

Rioting broke out following the defeat of the "anti-Fascists" champion, Gaston Bergery, by Roger Barret, his national union opponent, in a bye-election for a seat in the chamber of deputies. The vote was 8,788 to 8,159.

Rival partisans clashed in the streets of Mantes as soon as the result was announced. Rioting spread and flared in hand-to-hand battles with police as radical Socialists backing Bergery resisted police charges.

Finally, using a truck as a tank, the main body of the fighting throng broke a police cordon and occupied the principal square of the city, holding on until police reinforcements and rain combined to drive them from their rallying point.

A dozen police and 39 of the howling manifestants were injured by clubs, feet, fists and stones before forces from Versailles swarmed in to overcome the mobs.

Additional police were ordered to Mantes today to guard against a renewal of the outbreaks, while Minister of the Interior Sarraut personally directed the nationwide plans for precautionary mobilizations.

Barricades in Havana
Havana, April 30 (AP)—Warlike scenes were enacted in Havana today as police and soldiers guarded against threatened May Day outbreaks.

Military units covered the capital. Police and soldiers searched all cars in the shopping district. Army engineers erected sandbag barricades at all bridges around the city.

And painted signs appeared on public monuments and buildings, bearing the sickle and hammer, with the words:

"To the street on May first—Communist party."

Handbills were circulated calling upon "soldiers" to "help the worker, for he is your brother," the bills also bore the sickle and hammer.

Other Precautions
Police and soldiers of many lands were martialled for "extraordinary duty" today as authorities girded for battle in outbreaks feared on May Day.

New York laid the most extensive plans in its history to guard against violence as parades were announced in which 200,000 marchers are expected to appear. All police leaves were suspended for a period of special police duty from last midnight to noon Wednesday. Communists and their sympathizers will form one parade, while Socialists and affiliated groups have planned the other.

Other American cities made similar drastic precautionary preparations today.

Austria began its precautionary moves by rounding up known agitators and consigning them to jail. Men suspected of plotting to dynamite government buildings were arrested Sunday in Vienna's underground sewer system. It was there that during the February civil war, a "state of alarm" already had been declared in Spain. There was fear of violent disorders in connection with a general strike called by Socialists and extremists in Madrid.

Fearing clashes between members of the Zionist revisionists and the Histadruth—General Federation of Jewish Labor—authorities banned all demonstrations in Jerusalem.

Nine foreign communists and one Belgian were arrested at Brussels and Malines, charged with preparing revolutionary agitation for May Day. Firearms and propaganda were seized.

LITTLE GIRL STRUCK WHEN SHE RAN IN FRONT OF CAR
Elizabeth, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mayer of 37 Lawrence street, was struck and knocked down by one of the Greenwald trucks, driven by Jacob Wolf of 24 Smith avenue, at Delaware and Haverbrook avenues on Saturday afternoon when the child ran in front of the truck. According to the report filed with the police the child was crossing the street with her older sister, Mary, when she broke loose from her sister and ran directly in the path of the truck. She was hurled to the Kingston Hospital where it was found that her injuries were not serious.

1934 Submarine Victim
Glenn Falls, N. Y., April 30 (AP)—Plans were being made today for the burial of this section's first submarine victim of the season, Anthony Kowalski.

His body was recovered from the Hudson River last night by police after they were notified by his daughter, Sophia, 12, that he failed to reappear after diving from a rooftop.

$2,000,000,000 Stabilization Fund Created By The Treasury

Unofficial Understanding Is That $200,000,000 Was Deposited With the Federal Reserve For Active Use and the Remaining Amount Held in Reserve—Officials Refuse to Discuss the Step.

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The treasury formally created a $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund today, apparently depositing $200,000,000 with the federal reserve system for active use, and holding the remaining $1,800,000,000 in reserve.

To accomplish the transaction of officially setting up the fund appropriated by Congress for guiding the dollar's course, the entire $2,000,000,000 was carried as expended on April 27.

Previously, the $2,510,000,000 of profit on devaluation had been designated in the treasury statement simply as "increment resulting from reduction in the weight of the gold dollar."

Treasury officials refused to discuss the step and said the daily statement must speak for itself. There was no indication whether the $200,000,000 given the reserve system had been used.

What happened on the stabilization fund was this: A $1,800,000,000 "change stabilization fund" was entered as a liability against the gold stock of $7,755,570,740. Simultaneously the gold certificate fund of the Federal Reserve Board jumped $101,000,000.

This was interpreted by experts as indicating a treasury deposit of this amount out of the stabilization fund. It was believed the other $39,000,000 previously was deposited in the same way. For some weeks the treasury has been depositing with the reserve banks more gold in the form of certificates than was revealed in actual metal.

The New York Reserve Bank is the fiscal agent of the treasury.

Crime's Big, Bad Wolf May Be Dead or Alive, But Mid-West Watches

White Convicts Scale Prison Walls and Crawl Through Sewer Drains to Hunt Freedom, the Central Figure on Criminal Stage Is Dillinger.

(By The Associated Press.)

While the rumor spread through the middle west early today that John Dillinger was dead, a man who "resembles" him led a successful gun battle against officers at Bellwood, a suburb of Chicago.

The two mile running fight started when four men in a Ford sedan failed to stop for a red light. Three policemen gave chase in the face of machine gun fire from a fleeing car. The officers overtook the gangsters at a filling station only to be covered by machine guns and disarmed.

The quartet after hitting one of the policemen over the head with one of the guns, Police Lieutenant Joseph Hagemaster thought one of the men looked like Dillinger, another like George "Baby Face" Nelson, sought in northern Minnesota by hundreds of officers.

Three convicts who escaped from Ohio Penitentiary by disarming a guard with a smuggled pistol and sliding down a cable thrown over the wall were still at large today. The fugitives made no effort to liberate Harry Pierpont, Dillinger lieutenant awaiting electrocution.

Randall Norvell and James O'Connell, still in their prison garb with a posse hot on their trail, eluded pursuit by boarding a freight into southeast Missouri last night.

They escaped from the Southern Illinois penitentiary Friday. Sheriff Luther Daugherty, working alone, captured Harry Flemming, negro, early today at the house of an acquaintance after practically the entire male population of Crisfield, Md., had searched for him all night in a nearby swamp. Flemming, it is charged, critically wounded a policeman with a chisel. To avert a possible lynching, the sheriff sent his prisoner to Baltimore for safe keeping.

Dominic Marra, Newark carpenter, under heavy guard to prevent mob violence by grief stricken parishioners, was arraigned for the murder yesterday of the Rev. Julius Moscati, Catholic Priest, in the rectory of his church. The priest was fatally wounded in defending Mrs. Christian Moscati, a woman parishioner who saved the carpenter money. She was wounded three times by Marra.

The hunt for the kidnapers of little June Robles shifted from Tucson, Ariz., to Mexico after her grandfather crossed the border last night presumably to negotiate with the abductors and failed to return.

TWO PEOPLE INJURED AS CARS COLLIDED SUNDAY
William G. Martin of the Kingston Hotel was cut on the nose and Katherine Taubenberg of 545 Delaware avenue was injured about the face, head and chest when a Chevrolet coupe of Martin's collided with one of Roon's taxis parked at the curb on Delaware avenue. A report was filed with the police department. The accident occurred Sunday.

State TERA Covers Death Compensation
The accident on Saturday which resulted in the death of John Noble and injury of Wilbur McAllister, two employees of the Works Division of the TERA, has brought up the question if work relief employees are protected by the workmen's compensation act. They are not, but under an act passed by the state legislature and effective April 1 last, the state administration is liable and is allowed to pay a sum not exceeding $2,500 in case of death or permanent injury to a work relief employee in the state. This sum is exclusive of funeral expenses, which shall not exceed the sum of $200.

At one time actions were commenced in court to recover damages from the city of New York for damages done to property bordering on the Esopus but nothing has ever been done through lack of funds to prosecute the actions against the city.

Should a public hearing be granted by the governor it will undoubtedly be largely attended and facts and figures are being compiled to present at such a hearing.

Shandaken Conduit Bill Passes 2 Houses Now Up To Governor

Bill Would Provide for Construction of Tunnel from Gilboa Opening to Reservoir—Introduced by Assemblyman Conway.

The bill of Assemblyman J. Edward Conway to have New York city construct a conduit from the Shandaken end of the Gilboa tunnel to the Ashokan reservoir has passed the assembly by a unanimous vote, and on Friday the Senate also passed the same bill by unanimous vote.

This matter is now up to Governor Lehman for his approval.

Assemblyman Conway has requested a public hearing on the matter from the governor and is now awaiting word as to whether such a hearing will be granted. Should a hearing be granted a large delegation of people from the Town of Shandaken will appear before the governor and urge his approval of this matter which will mean so much toward flood control in the Esopus valley from Shandaken to the Ashokan reservoir.

The bill calls for the construction of a pipe line or conduit from the portal at Shandaken to the Ashokan reservoir to carry the water now dumped into the Esopus creek from the Gilboa reservoir. By the construction of such a pipe line the damage now being caused by the Schodarie water being introduced directly into the Esopus will be eliminated. The distance is approximately nine miles.

Some time ago the people of the town of Shandaken along the Esopus asked for relief from flood conditions and also from damage which the addition of the Schodarie waters did to the residents of the town that not only are the property owners along the creek being damaged by flood waters but that the entire town is being damaged through loss of business. Boarding house keepers in this mountain section allege that their business is being injured by season of the fact that trout fishing has been spoiled for several years. People who used to come from distant points to fish the water from Cold Brook up past Phoenicia no longer come. Business has fallen off and much of this is due to the fact that New York city is emptying the Schodarie water into the Esopus during the fishing season, making the stream unsuitable for fishing. It is said.

Attempts to have the control of the stream regulated so as not to interfere with fishing have failed and sportsmen claim that the introduction of the rocky waters of the Gilboa reservoir have spoiled fishing. During the early season vast amounts of clay filled water is sent through the Shandaken tunnel and emptied directly into the Esopus.

Attempts to have the flow of water controlled during the fishing season have failed and fishermen who reach the excellent trout water near Phoenicia to fish find a rapid, muddy stream. The result is they do not return.

Residents along the creek also claim that the constant flow of the Schodarie water through the banks has resulted in erosion of the banks so that in times of flood their property is washed away and damaged.

The matter of relief was taken up by the taxpayers last fall and winter. Supervisor Clarence Voss of Shandaken offered a resolution in the board of supervisors asking that the county seek to have the matter attended to and going on record as being in favor of the Conway bill for a conduit.

At one time actions were commenced in court to recover damages from the city of New York for damages done to property bordering on the Esopus but nothing has ever been done through lack of funds to prosecute the actions against the city.

Should a public hearing be granted by the governor it will undoubtedly be largely attended and facts and figures are being compiled to present at such a hearing.

Fall Elections to Mark Samuel J. Messinger. Legislature Changes Prominent Merchant, Early Forecast Claims Is Found Dead in Bed

Three New Influences Make 1934 Campaign a Gamble—Lehman Only Serious Mention of Democratic Governor, as Position Is Strengthened.

Albany, N. Y., April 30 (AP)—Some of those who wearily left the halls of the New York legislature early last Saturday morning were unwittingly returning to civilian life. Before the Senate and Assembly return for a regular session next January New Yorkers will indulge in an old American custom—election.

And the law of averages prescribes that here and there in the legislature ill health and ill luck will leave vacancies for new faces.

But, the fall election of United States senator, governor and all other state officers was far from the minds of the legislators and Governor Lehman as they closed their desks and prepared to catch up with lost sleep.

Mr. Lehman today is at Atlantic City for a rest. Senators John J. Dunnigan and George R. Fearon, rival party leaders in the Upper House, some other members of Senate and Assembly, are sunning themselves in the south. Reverberations of the rough and tumble session still echoed from Montauk Point to Niagara Falls.

Three new influences make this year's campaign a mystery and a gamble.

First—The effects of the Fusion victory in New York city and the differences in the Democratic forces including the removal of Tammany's leader, John F. Curry.

Second—The split in up-state Republican ranks between State Chairman W. Kingsland Macy and the "Old Guard," and subsequent relations of a relationship between Senator Warren T. Thayer and a utility.

Third—The hearing, if any, the developments of the Roosevelt "new deal" have upon state party lines.

So far, none but Mr. Lehman seriously is mentioned as a Democratic candidate for governor. Passage of the utility laws and the New York charter commission strengthened his position.

Many names are heard mentioned in connection with the Republican choice, Rep. Hamilton Fish, Macy, Fearon, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who ran against Alfred E. Smith in 1918, Harold B. Johnson, Senator Thomas C. Desmond, but there is no inside information any one of them will seek the nomination, or accept it.

Republicans undoubtedly will attack the Lehman bulwark cuts in school aid. They laid the ground work for an issue when Senator Fearon contended funds collected through gas tax were used to pay off a deficit from the Roosevelt administration instead of going into highways.

Mr. Lehman has an enviable voting record. He ran ahead of Mr. Roosevelt in 1930 as lieutenant governor when the Democrats broke all state marks for pluralities. In 1922 Lehman carried 10 up-state counties. He was at the heels of his Republican opponent, William J. Donovan, in ten others, Columbia, Dutchess, Franklin, Greene, Hamilton, Herkimer, Montgomery, Putnam, Schoharie and Schoharie. Lehman carried the state by almost $50,000 over Donovan, who had only a lead of 150,000 outside of New York city.

Macy and young Chase Mellen, Jr., Manhattan Republican chairman, confidently declare the Tammany-Recovery party fight coupled with LaGuardia's mayoral victory gave Republicans hope in New York. Mellen said two state senators would be elected from Manhattan. They now are all Democrats. The Democrats have only a one vote margin in the Senate.

The Assembly is Republican by 20 votes, 85 to 65, but a shift of nine votes would change it. A bitter fight in the primaries between Macy and the "Old Guard" gives Democrats hope they will overturn the Assembly. In many counties, Macy will enter Assembly candidates to oppose lower house members who fought his plan to remove Clerk Fred Hammond. Macy said Hammond was utility controlled.

Treasury Receipts.
Washington, April 30 (AP)—The position of the treasury April 27 was: Receipts, $15,508,099.05; expenditures, $2,020,556,053.21; balance, $2,328,526,606.60. Customs receipts for the month, $12,201,922.72. Receipts for the fiscal year since July 1 were $2,474,237,354.92; expenditures, $5,778,439,847.76, including $2,263,709,583.73 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $3,294,202,492.85. Gold assets, $7,755,570,740.30.

20 MARINE PLANES LEAVE QUANTICO FOR CARIBBEAN
Quantico, Va., April 30 (AP)—Twenty airplanes took off from here shortly after dawn today on the largest mass formation flight ever attempted by the marine corps.

The objective is Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where the planes will base and become part of the navy's maneuvers in the Caribbean.

The flight will cover about 5,000 miles, including 300 miles over water and 2,000 miles over tropical lands.

No records will be sought on the flight, the trip being made in easy stages. Lt. Col. Ross E. Rowell is in command.

Widely Known Merchant of Central Broadway Apparently in Best of Health When He Retired to Bed Sunday Night—Brief Sketch of a Busy Life Spent in Kingston.

Samuel J. Messinger

Samuel J. Messinger, widely known merchant of central Broadway, was found dead in bed by his wife this morning at his home, 79 West O'Reilly street. Death was due to a heart attack. Mr. Messinger on Sunday morning attended services in the Church of the Redeemer, where he has been an active member for years, and was about as usual that day. Sunday evening he retired to bed apparently in his usual good health. Mr. Messinger was a son of the late George and Louisa Schwab Messinger, and is survived by his wife, one daughter, Marion, wife of the Rev. Scott Frost of Upton, Maine; two sons, Karl and Samuel, Jr., who are away at school; two brothers, George E. Messinger of Kingston, and William Messinger of West New York; and five sisters, Mrs. Louis Miller of Selkirk, Mrs. Henry Colburn of West New York, Mrs. Louis Wooling of West New York, Miss Anna Messinger of West New York, and Miss Louise Messinger of West New York.

Mr. Messinger was a lifelong resident of Kingston, and for years had been active in the religious, fraternal and civic life of the city. For over a quarter of a century he was engaged in the meat and grocery business at 458 Broadway, and was known for his unquestioned integrity and ability in business. As a young man he was active in local military affairs and served as a member of old Company M during the Spanish-American War.

Fraternally he was a member of Kingston Lodge No. 19, F. & A. M., Roundout Commandery, Knights Templar, and Cyprus Temple of the Shrine. He was also active in the Kingston Shriners' Association, and a member of Charles DeWitt Council, Jr. O. E. S., and the I. O. O. F.

For years he has been an active member of Kiwanis Club of this city. Mr. Messinger was always deeply interested in all affairs of civic interest. During the recent Y. M. C. A. drive he was one of the most active of the workers in the campaign. He was also interested in the business life of the city and active in many civic matters. There was hardly a phase of city life that he did not come in touch with during his long and active career as a resident of the city, and he numbered his friends by the hundreds.

News of his sudden death spread rapidly throughout the city, and came as a shock to his host of friends and acquaintances, for in the death of Mr. Messinger the city has lost one of its most active and useful citizens.

Industrial Interests Criticize The Reciprocal Tariff Measure

H. L. Derby Declares The Measure Would Retard Progress Just as The Securities Act Held Up Industrial Expansion—Senate Democrats Will Meet Tonight To Unite Forces Behind The Legislation.

May Trial Term Of Supreme Court Here On Monday, May 7

New Method of Making Up a Day Calendar Will Be Tried—Judge Stanley Will Preside.

The May trial term of supreme court will be convened Monday, May 7, at 2 o'clock with Judge Stanley presiding. There are 24 additional cases on the calendar and five preferred actions.

Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock under the rule the clerk will call the cases and mark them for the term, and at that time an effort will be made to make up a day calendar for Monday afternoon. Under the rule such cases must be ready on the part of plaintiff and defendant. At this term a new method of making up a day calendar will be tried out. There will be a regular day calendar with cases ready for immediate trial and a second "alarm" calendar from which cases will be moved to the day calendar. The alarm calendar will be made up of cases which can be made ready on short notice. By this arrangement will not be necessary for an attorney to have witnesses in court for several days waiting for his case to be reached. Cases will be moved from the calendar to the alarm calendar and once there attorneys will be expected to be in a position to get their witnesses and proceed as soon as their case is moved on to the ready calendar.

At the March term over which Judge Adel presided 24 cases were tried; 52 were settled; 24 cases went off the calendar for various reasons; one case was stricken from the calendar; eight were dismissed; one was transferred to surrogate's court and three were referred to an official referee.

Noble Fatally Hurt In Dynamite Blast
Works Division Employee Died at Kingston Hospital Saturday Afternoon Following Injuries Received That Morning When a Dynamite Blast Went Off Unexpectedly—McAllister, Second Man Hurt, Reported Condition Apparently Good.

John Noble of 92 First avenue, died at the Kingston Hospital on Saturday afternoon from injuries received that morning when a blast of dynamite went off unexpectedly while at work on the Emerson street sewer. Wilbur McAllister of 122 Henry street, foreman on the job, was also badly injured and was rushed to the hospital where his condition this noon was reported as apparently good. It was thought at first that McAllister would lose the sight of one eye, but it is now believed that his eyesight will be unimpaired.

Mr. Noble was employed as blaster on the job and had set off a charge of dynamite which failed to explode. While taking the timbers off that had been piled over the charge to ascertain what was the reason for the failure to explode, the blast suddenly went off, hurling him into the air. The force of the impact was such that one arm was torn off and the other hanging by shreds, while he was so badly injured about the face and head as to be almost beyond recognition.

Mr. Noble is survived by his son, Edward Noble; three brothers, Martin, James and Daniel Noble, and a sister, Miss Jane Noble. Funeral services from the James M. Murphy Funeral Home, 174 Broadway, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock and thence to St. Mary's Church where a high mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

SARATOGA BETTING RING TO BEGIN AFTER 25 YEARS.
Saratoga Springs, N. Y., April 30 (AP)—The betting ring of this city's famous horse racing track, unused 25 years, will soon be enlarged to care for increased crowds expected to attend August's program in the horse-racing sport.

Announcement of plans to add to the betting pavilion was made yesterday by George Bull, president of the Saratoga Springs Racing Association, who was here to discuss bids for the work with three contractors. The project is expected to cost several thousand dollars.

Legalization of open betting is believed responsible for the plans, with an increased attendance anticipated.

Harry Perlman Is Arrested in Raid
Harry Perlman was arrested Sunday morning at his place of business, 29 John street, when it was raided by a squad of police acting under the orders of Chief of Police J. Allan Wood. The police took the names of those they found in the place and seized some money as evidence. Perlman was charged with being a common gambler. This morning in police court the hearing was adjourned to May 2.

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Hearing the surprising endorsement of the Hoover secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, the administration's reciprocal tariff bill was criticized today by representatives of industrial interests on the ground it would impede recovery.

Harry L. Derby of New York, speaking for the Manufacturing Chemists Association, told the Senate finance committee the legislation would be the "greatest factor in stopping the progress of industry that could be done."

Hearings on the controversial bill, which already has been passed by the House, will terminate tomorrow. Senate Democrats will meet tonight to unite their forces as far as possible behind the legislation.

Derby said the measure would retard progress just as the securities act held up industrial expansion.

"I'd like to have some one prove that to me," said Senator Barkley (D-Ky.).

Derby protested against giving the president power to enter into tariff reduction agreements with other nations without submitting the facts to the senate for action and unless affected industries were granted a hearing in advance.

"No industry will be safe in expanding unless it knows its interests are to be safeguarded," he added.

Wool growers and manufacturers and paper and pulp interests will appear at the hearing tomorrow.

Robert C. Graham, chairman of the export committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, a belated witness favoring the bill, was sandwiched between the opposition representatives.

Graham said the bill was urgently needed to "stimulate a two-way flow of trade on a quick and practicable basis."

With a "reasonable tariff policy," he added, automobile exports might well be restored to normal next year from $50,000 to 1,000,000 cars. Last year the figure was only 249,000.

"American automobiles," he said, "have been more heavily penalized by high duties and restricted quotas than any other article."

"Our real hope lies in modifying these penalties by tariff bargaining," Graham denied that one of the motives for approving the bill was the hope that rates on imported products used in the manufacture of automobiles would be reduced, as suggested by Senator Hastings (R., Del.).

"We have to buy if we expect to sell," the witness added.

However, he said he personally would like to see the tariff on imported autos cut in half, but he agreed with Hastings that importations—only a few thousand—did not present a serious problem.

Hastings tried to develop that anything the President might do under the bill could not hurt the automobile industry and might help it. Graham refused to concede this.

He did agree with the Delaware senator that the operation of foreign plants by Henry Ford affected America's automobile export trade and said he personally felt the Hawley-Smoot act lessened United States exports of cars.

Supervisors To Choose Successor To Loughran

Board Meets This Evening to Consider Vacant Post of Highway Superintendent Since Loughran Was Expelled.

At the meeting of the board of supervisors this evening at 7:30 p.m. it is anticipated a successor to James F. Loughran will be named to the office of county superintendent of highways. Mr. Loughran was removed from office after a lengthy hearing before the board when the 17 Democrats cast their votes against the 16 Republicans and as a result the office is now vacant. Just what the Democrats expect to do is a closely guarded secret while several names have been mentioned as possible candidates. Nothing definite has been imparted to the waiting public to indicate what the intent of the board is. The job is a civil service job and the appointment made now will have to be a temporary one pending examinations. The job will have to be handed to someone with experience and ability and thus limits the field to a mere handful of candidates. At one time it was stated that James O. Winston of Saugerties, the man who built the Ashokan reservoir, was being sought to fill the job and Major Hule of Saugerties, state highway contractor, was also mentioned. Even the name of D. V. Z. Bogert, county engineer for the State Highway Department has been mentioned. However former City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan is now being mentioned as a possible appointee as is Charles L. Vogt who has been in the employ of the State Highway Department. Another State Highway Department employee who has been mentioned for the job is Bernard V. Roach, a member of the Board of Public Works of the city. Mr. Trowbridge, a former

State Highway Department employee and a former member of Armstrong & Trowbridge, state road contracting firm, has also been talked of. Mr. Trowbridge appeared as a witness at the ousting proceedings before the board.

A highway program will also probably be adopted this evening and appropriations made for the summer work. A recent meeting was held by the committee on repairs and at that time the alterations to the courtroom were gone over. It has been suggested that the courtroom be rearranged during the summer recess of courts and the bench moved to the north side of the courtroom. The benches will also be rearranged and it is the desire of the committee from the County Bar Association to have a doorway cut through from the visiting judge's office to the ante-room so that the judge may enter the courtroom and go directly to the bench through the side entrance without the necessity of elbowing his way through crowds at the main door of the courtroom. The desired improvements would also include a new doorway from the visiting judge's office into the Supreme Court library. This would provide access directly from the front office and the library through the ante-room and into the court chamber without the need of entering the public corridor. This matter may also be brought up before the board for consideration tonight and the report of the committee on repairs acted upon. While James F. Loughran was re-elected to office by the unanimous vote of the entire board last May it is not likely that the election of the new county superintendent of highways will be unanimous at this time. Many of the Democratic members of the board who voted for Mr. Loughran's re-appointment last May voted for his ousting last Friday on alleged charges they claim took place in 1930, 1931 and 1932.

Judge H. T. Kellogg To Retire in a Month

Albany, N. Y., April 30 (AP)—Only a month more of service remained today for Judge Henry T. Kellogg of the court of appeals. Retirement of Judge Kellogg brought from Chief Judge Cuthbert W. Pound last night a statement of loss and admiration. He declared Judge Kellogg's departure will "leave a gap in our ranks not easily to be supplied."

"I am a honor Judge Kellogg for his sterling qualities of mind and heart, for his sound learning, for his pride in his work and in the work of our court."

Judge Kellogg's term would have expired December 31, 1933. Judge Pound, having reached the age limit of 70, will retire this year, as will Judge Frederick E. Crane, whose term will expire.

All the places will be filled at the election in the fall.

Featured Speakers At Business Dinner

Featured speakers at the dinner of the Central Business Men's Association in Winter's restaurant, Broadway, near the West Shore, Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock, will be Mayor Conrad J. Heiselein, Alderman-at-Large John Schwert and G. E. Bentley, specialist in recommending and finding industries for cities. Assemblyman J. Edward Conway will be the toastmaster.

All of the speakers, it is expected, will have topics of great interest, especially Mr. Bentley who will devote his time to describing what Kingston has to offer factories and what industries demand of cities in vying them to settle in them.

A large attendance is looked for by the committee in charge of the dinner—President William O'Reilly of the business men, Harry B. Walker, Chester Miller and Frank W. Brown.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, April 30. Miss Caroline Lovelace of Westbury, L. I., will be in Woodstock on May 3 at her place on the Glenside Pike.

Mr. Keyes, who last year rented from Harry Leitertoss, has purchased the D. A. Reidy place on Olney Mountain.

Clarence Bolton has moved his print shop to the little studio down the lane opposite the school house. The shop he has just vacated on the Longendyke property is being remodeled and will soon be reopened as a food shop by Mrs. Fannie Elwyn, to be known as "Fannie's Pantry."

The Boy Scouts, led by Louis Lewis, are looking for new recruits and any boys of proper age, 12 years, or over, are invited to be present on May 4, at 7:30 p. m., at the Reformed Church basement, at which time Tenderfoot Scouts will be installed. At the same time and place on May 6, Court of Honor will be held. Woodstock Troop, No. 34, will be hosts on this occasion to Saugerties and Malden troops. Friends and parents are invited to attend. The scouts are preparing to work up a good baseball team and Saturday they all turned out for practice, choosing two practice or scrub teams. Harry Pocock pitched for one and Church Layman for the other. The troop is still without its colors, due to lack of funds and as they are very desirous of having them for Decoration Day, donations to the cause will be received by Postmaster Elwyn from any who are moved to aid the realization of this ambition.

John Varney and Martin Young spent the week-end at Mr. Varney's cottage, "Patmos."

Mrs. Olga Lynch is ill at her home with severe bronchial trouble.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, April 30.—The condition of Dr. Joseph J. Osgrove is reported as being considerably improved. The doctor for the past several weeks has been confined in an Albany hospital following an operation.

A. Wallerstein and family spent the week-end at their country place in the village center.

Gould Persons is convalescing following an operation at the Benedictine Hospital. It is expected that Mr. Persons will be brought home some time this week.

The members of Shokan Troop of Boy Scouts will hold a clam chowder supper in the Reformed Church hall Friday evening, May 4. The supper will begin at 5:30 and continue until all are served.

Artsen Van Wageningen of Kingston spent Friday evening at the Van Wageningen summer home which overlooks the west basin of the reservoir.

There were many visiting fishermen's cars parked at various points along the reservoir boulevards Sunday. The upper Esopus also was well fished over the weekend. Although the Shandaken tunnel portal was closed, the water in the creek was closed. Captain H. B. Whitman, commander at Camp No. 2, was one of the sportsmen who tried their luck in the Esopus.

The city's road crew has progressed as far east as Kenozia Lake in the work of repairing the frost damage to the pavement of the north boulevard. Herman Morris of Ashokan again is running the big roller on the paving job.

The eighth month scouts of the 215th Co., C. C. C., have completed their work in the town of Olive and are now engaged in tree planting operations in Greene county.

The Shokan Reformed Church Sunday school will elect officers for the ensuing year at the meeting of the school next Sunday morning.

There were 18 persons present at the April meeting and annual election of officers of the Shokan Home Bureau held at the Tongore hall on Wednesday. At the business session proceeding the covered dish luncheon, the following officers were elected: Chairman, Mrs. Floyd Merrinow of Ashokan; vice chairman, Mrs. LeRoy Davis, Tongore; secretary and treasurer, Miss Gladys Vandewear. Mrs. Floyd Merrinow was selected as delegate to the Advisory Council in Kingston on May 18. As a result of the discussion of plans for the coming year, Mrs. Merrinow was instructed to vote for the following tentative program for the local bureau: Community planning of meals, re-conditioning of cottages and cottages. After the conclusion of Wednesday's meeting, two carloads of the ladies motored to Milton where they heard an address at the Women's Market on the rural home-maker and rural life in Norway.

The pupils of the local school, of which Mrs. E. C. Burgher is the teachers, are exchanging letters with children of schools in the west. Sentiments also are exchanged in the course of this correspondence.

SHANDAKEN.

Shandaken, April 30. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Enser and Miss Hazel Jansen of Amsterdam were guests of Mrs. F. M. Cleveland on Saturday. They were on their way to Lanesville to visit friends and to go from there to their homes on Sunday.

Mrs. Emily Gratton of New York, recently of Detroit, Mich., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood.

Mrs. Harold Brown, E. N. has returned home after being employed at Oneonta for some time.

A play entitled "Anchors Aweigh" given under the auspices of the school children on Saturday night at the church hall was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wood and Mrs. Emily Gratton were callers on Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown on Saturday. F. M. Cleveland, who holds the championship of catching the largest trout hereabouts, 26 inches long and weighing six and three-quarter pounds, came home with a large mess of the speckled beauties on Sunday.

"Open Door" for All Japan's New Stand

London, April 30 (AP)—Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, told the House of Commons today that Japan has fully accepted the policy of the "open door" for all nations in China.

The foreign secretary's statement was made before a crowded House anxious to hear the government's attitude on the Japanese "hands of China" doctrine unofficially stated February 17.

Sir John said that Sir Francis Lindley, British ambassador to Japan, had pointed out to Koki Hirota, the Japanese foreign minister, that the principle of equal rights in China was very explicitly guaranteed by the nine-power treaty signed at Washington in 1922, to which Japan was a signatory.

The British ambassador had explained that the British government must continue to enjoy all rights under that treaty in common with other signatories, the foreign secretary said.

HERE, John Biggs, IS WHAT TO DO FOR YOUR Headaches!
Dr. B. — tells Mr. Biggs, traffic officer, of New York, N. Y.*

*Dr. B.—is well known New York physician, whose signed statement is on record in New York. We omit his name out of courtesy to the accepted profession.

If you are made miserable by those "sick" headaches... follow the advice of Dr. B. —. Get positive relief more quickly by removing the real cause!

Those nagging "sick" headaches of yours—nine times out of ten, doctors have learned, are due to just one cause... Your intestines are clogged with poisonous wastes!

These accumulated wastes, according to Dr. B. —, exert pressure on the intestinal nerves, thus causing your headaches. Also they generate poisons that the blood stream picks up and carries to all parts of your body—making you feel "half sick," listless, out-of-sorts.

You must rid the system of these poisonous wastes! And for nearly forty years, doctors have prescribed Sal Hepatica as the safe, sure way to do this. For Sal Hepatica is utterly different from other types of laxatives in four vital respects:—

Why Sal Hepatica is Different—More Efficient

1. It is a Mineral Salt Laxative that not only flushes the system clear of poisonous wastes, but tends to aid Nature in restoring the natural balance of body fluids.
2. Its action results from osmosis (a gentle, thorough flushing) and not from irritation.
3. It acts promptly. No hours of waiting.
4. No "dragged-out" feeling afterwards—because Sal Hepatica does not deplete the body tissues of fluid.

So take Sal Hepatica at the first sign of clogged intestines. And thus aid Nature to keep you free from colds, grippe, rheumatic pains, upset stomach and other common troubles.

KILLER WHO FACED GALLOWS 5 TIMES IS GIVEN FREEDOM

Tells of Lunaticism of 20 Years Spent in Pennsylvania Prison.

Pittsburgh.—A humble little man who five times prepared himself for death has just been released from Western penitentiary. He was given a new suit of clothes and the money he earned during the 20 years of work in the prison shops, and now Frank Maly can call what's left of his life his own.

The state board of pardons decided that Frank has squared his debt with society, that he has suffered enough for the killing of a man in the heat of his youth 20 years ago.

That's why the board let him out now instead of keeping him in prison for life—the sentence he was given after he was convicted five times from the gallows in 1911.

Heard Death Warrant Five Times.

Five times former Sheriff Judd Burt read the death sentence to him and each time the governor granted a reprieve, due in great part to Burt's intervention. The gallows had been made ready each time, a gruesome work that Maly had witnessed from his cell in the county jail. Finally came the order that commuted the sentence to life imprisonment and he was taken to the penitentiary at Woods Run.

"I wouldn't have minded dying then," he added, after a long pause. The muscles of his face twitched under its pallor and he drew a deep breath into his lungs as he turned toward the light that filtered in through the barred window.

All the windows are barred at the penitentiary, even in the office of Deputy Warden William E. Gaffney, where Maly was brought for his interview. They brought him in from the tailor shop, a slight built little man with thinning hair and shoulders a little stooped from many hours of bending over his machine. He's nearly fifty, but not the fifty the free man knows.

Not So Bad at First.

He could talk easily of things before his prison term began, and he could talk almost with enthusiasm about the future. But when he spoke of that 20-year interlude it was in a voice that often faltered.

"It wasn't so bad at first," he said. "My friends said, 'You go on down there and we'll get you out in five years.' And then time went by—year after year—"

His voice faltered and stopped. He turned again to the window, and somehow his listeners knew that many thousands of times during that 20 years he had turned in just that way to his prison window when his thoughts and hopes began to falter.

"And so I waited while the years went by," Maly began again. "And every time I heard the key click in the lock I knew another day had passed—another day wasted—"

The worst hours, he indicated, were those empty ones spent in his cell. "Sometimes I could read," he said, "but most of the time my thoughts were too restless. I would walk up and down, up and down in my cell."

"There are so many people who can't understand things, who think they are smart and can get away with things. They're all in the dark, but I know. It would be a good world," he added, and again his voice faltered. "If everybody could just understand."

"If the pardon board knew what was in my heart and my intentions for the future they wouldn't have kept me in so long."

Sprint of Fat Copper Costs Spectator $5 Fine

Milwaukee.—Rushing up to a portly policeman, Edward A. Wieland, twenty-seven, pointed and breathlessly panted:

"See that truck two blocks down the street? There's a murder being committed in it."

Gun in hand the officer ran top speed to the truck, kicked open the door and found nothing but a load of merchandise.

"Why," asked the policeman, "did you tell me there was a murder there?"

Wieland replied: "I just wanted to see a fat cop run."

He paid $5 for the privilege in District court.

Each Child Has 3 Ages, Cleveland Doctor Finds

Cincinnati.—A child has three ages, mental, physical and chronological, Dr. T. Wingate Todd, professor of anatomy in Western Reserve university, Cleveland, told the Cincinnati Academy of Medicine here recently.

Doctor Todd said X-rays provide data for determination of the physical age, while psychological tests are made for the mental age. Under normal conditions the chronological age can be estimated rather certainly by examination of the bone structures, Doctor Todd pointed out.

From the anatomical viewpoint, according to the physician, children of six have an adult brain and the best nurtured children have such a brain even at four. The brain then awaits only development through education with the child until ten, seeking to learn things through his own efforts rather than through teachings of others, according to Doctor Todd.

Church Built of Bones

Malta has the ugliest church in the world, the Chapel of Bones, in Strada Mercanti, Valletta. The architecture in this gruesome chapel is comprised of the bleached remains of those originally buried in the adjoining burial ground. The altar has a background of human skulls and crossbones and the arch above it is rendered in semicircular rows of skulls.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON.—The last hasn't been heard of the publication of the names of those members of the house who signed the petition to force a vote on the McLeod bill—the bill which would take care of depositors who lost money in closed national banks.

In the opinion of some house leaders it may prove to be the entering wedge in the effort to wipe out entirely or amend drastically the so-called discharge rule.

This rule has been a bone of contention in the house ever since the democrats took over control in December, 1921. Probably no rule of the house has been so severely condemned and so vigorously supported as this one.

The rule simply provides that if 145 members of the house sign a petition any committee may be discharged from further consideration of a certain piece of legislation and a vote forced in the house.

A Forced Bonus Vote

THE most striking example of the rule in operation is the way the house has been forced to vote on immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Opponents of the rule contend that sooner or later the house will get itself into a lot of trouble with this rule. "There's no telling what we might be forced to vote on if this astute rule is continued," says McDuffie of Alabama. "There are now about 25 petitions on the clerk's desk."

Patman of Texas, bonus advocate who has seen the rule work to his advantage more than once, counters with this argument:

One member of the senate can force consideration of any proposal. Why shouldn't 145 members of the house have the same right as one senator?

One group contends that under the rule the house legislators by petition of blots or minorities. The other argues that only by the discharge rule can the true will of the house be determined.

Between Two Fires

WHEN newspapers publish the names on discharge petitions before the required 145 have been obtained—as they did on the McLeod petition—the reaction causes discomfort and concern among both groups.

Those who have signed are subjected to pressure to withdraw their signatures. Those who have not are bombarded with demands that they do sign.

Members of the press galleries remember a striking example of that. On a recently published discharge petition a midwestern congressman's name was included in error. He appeared in the galleries almost in tears, claiming that it meant his political ruin. Yet he was afraid to get the matter corrected, explaining that it was just as bad one way as the other.

It's the fear, as one member expresses it, that this "rule will finally club off our heads" that may prompt a renewed effort to delete it.

Renew Driving Licenses in May

Albany, N. Y., April 29.—Next month will be the time in this state for renewing motor vehicle driving licenses. The law requires that such licenses shall be renewed annually and fixes June 1 as the date when the licenses shall take effect. The law also declares that "no person shall operate or drive a motor vehicle upon a public highway of the state unless he is duly licensed."

There need be no trouble or delay in renewing a license. When the application is filled out attach the 1933-34 stub to it and, with the required fee, mail or deliver them to the nearest office of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. A notary acknowledgment is not required. The renewal fee for an operator is fifty cents and for a chauffeur $2.

Application blanks are available at all offices of the Bureau, but licenses will not be renewed until Tuesday, May 1.

Renewal blanks will also be made available at all police stations in New York city and other large cities of the state, on and after May 1.

The operator and chauffeur application blanks this year ask for additional information: If employed, give name and address of the employer. The chauffeur blanks no longer call for information as to the citizenship status of the applicant.

Parapsychic Gets Around

The yellow-haired parapsychic in Colorado's largest redoubt, next to the house, says Nature Magazine. It occurs abundantly in the mountain country but it is a great wanderer and often is encountered far out on the plains. Not infrequently adventuresome individuals invade cities and towns, and they have been discovered wandering unconcernedly on the busiest streets of Denver.

First Use of Paper Money

Paper money was first used in the United States. Adopted as a matter of necessity, and not from choice, by the Massachusetts Bay colony, in 1690, it was gradually used by other colonies until in general use by 1725. It was the original intention of the colonies to have it equal in value to gold and silver, but the place of paper money in the history of the world is a subject of debate.

Grave of John Paul Jones

The grave of John Paul Jones was discovered by Gen. Horace Porter, in the Protestant cemetery of Paris, France, where it had been placed after a public funeral. The discovery was made in 1907 and after the remains were brought to the United States on an American armored cruiser, the Brooklyn, and interred in the grounds of the Naval Academy at Annapolis. —Washington Star

"I NEED HEALTHY NERVES, TOO, MR. CECIL SMITH, WITH A THRIVING FAMILY TO LOOK OUT FOR"

Robert E. Butterfield, Jr., who has two thriving youngsters, says:

"A father's job gives a fellow plenty of experience with nerve strain, too! Providing for the children keeps you keyed up to concert pitch. Then—coming home from work, with Dick insisting on movies—Bob's eternal tap dancing—that's the zero hour for a father's nerves! Although I smoke all I want, jangled nerves have passed me by. That's because I smoke Camels. Camels have the fine flavor of the choicest, most expensive tobaccos. And I find they never upset my nerves."

Cecil Smith, who rose to the top of the polo world this year with a ten-goal rating, says:

"Polo makes continuous demands on your nervous system. A fraction of a second determines whether or not you can successfully ride your opponent out of a play and a fraction of an inch in your aim may mean a goal—made or missed! Most polo players, myself included, smoke a great deal. And most polo players, myself included again, prefer to smoke Camels. They are milder. I like their flavor and they never upset my nerves."

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Nerves, nerves, nerves! You hear them discussed everywhere today. For most of us are more or less the victims of irritated, jumpy nerves.

If troubled that way, check up on your eating, your work, your recreation, your sleep.

And to be on the safe side about "nerves," begin to smoke Camels.

Sheer Blouses Show Originality

Ecru net is "ripple" tucked in the blouse at the left.

White georgette with Valenciennes lace makes the interesting model with double jabot at upper right.

Black organdie in the shirt below has a big front bow for its only decoration. Navy blue and brown are other dark colors shown in organdie.

Horsy Clothes Carry One Far

New York—Green and brown are the dark horses that are racing ahead and steadily gaining on the field. They may be reckoned with as being definitely within the money. They are often the winning colors in spectator sports costumes.

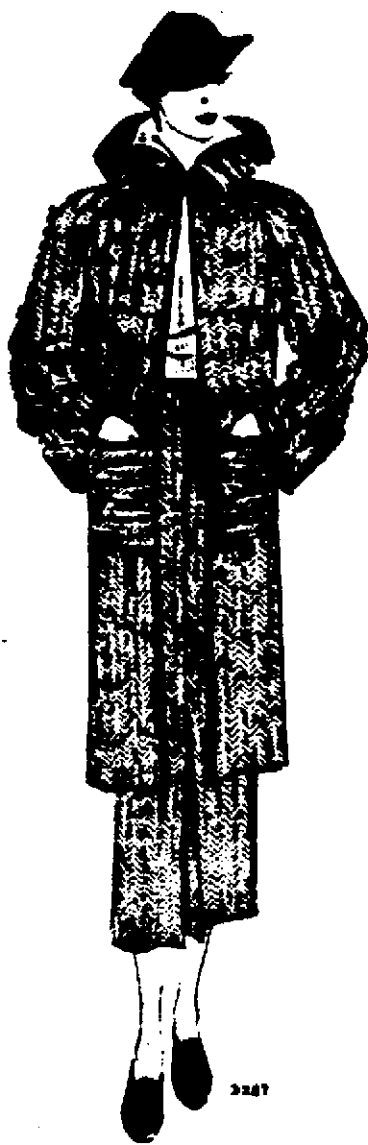

The coat sketched has an extremely interesting collar as well as color. Notice, please, that the collar of the sweater under it is drawn over it.

Should it be your happy fate to be going places, by motor, boat or train, you should have a bon voyage in such a costume. Most travelers like either box or swagger coats. There seems to be a feeling for nonchalance on route. If it is possible to find a coat equipped with commodious pockets, what could be more ideal.

If it's a going-away gown you're interested in, you'll want something on the sports side—even if you're a bride—perhaps more especially then. You must have noticed that it's the older women who cling to the feminine sort of thing wherever possible, and it is possible when traveling, although not altogether feasible. Sports clothes are most appropriate for deck wear even if one is not active in deck sports. They just belong, that's all. Be sure, though, that you have the right shoes, which means that they must not have high heels, and be sure that your gloves are roomy slippers and that you top your costume with a hat that will stand rough usage.

It's just as well to remember that we've gone rather horsey this year, even when far removed from the turf. There are the usual collections of good looking tweeds, nubby and otherwise, and some worsteds and Jersey wool alpaca and other novelty weaves, in a good color blend from which to make the travel suit, which is usually complimented by a sweater, or perhaps a knitted blouse. When it comes to choosing the hat that is to stand rough usage, it is suggested that you forget about straw and choose something else until such time as you are reasonably sure that you can do the right thing by your hat, which certainly is uncertain when traveling.

IDEAL FOR TRAVELING

A boxy tweed sports suit has a deep open tuck at the waistline, suggesting a bolero. The gathered calyx collar is also a double fold of the fabric, with the collar of the grey short-sleeved sweater worn pulled up inside it.

"Death Bed Widows" Attack Is Answered

ALBANY, N. Y., April 30.—State Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Anderson today answered the recent statement of an "Industrial Widows' Association" that "death bed widows" who have lost their husbands near death are being exploited by the company.

The statement was made by F. Anderson today at a meeting of the American Association of Insurance and Bonding Companies, in which he said that "death bed widows" were being exploited by the company.

before their death, and the company was not responsible for the loss of their husbands. Anderson said that the company was not responsible for the loss of their husbands, and that the company was not responsible for the loss of their husbands. Jabot necklines on blouses and frocks replace the scarf of other previous seasons.

White hats are beginning to appear, but they are different from other years in that they are invariably combined with black or navy, in brimmed styles.

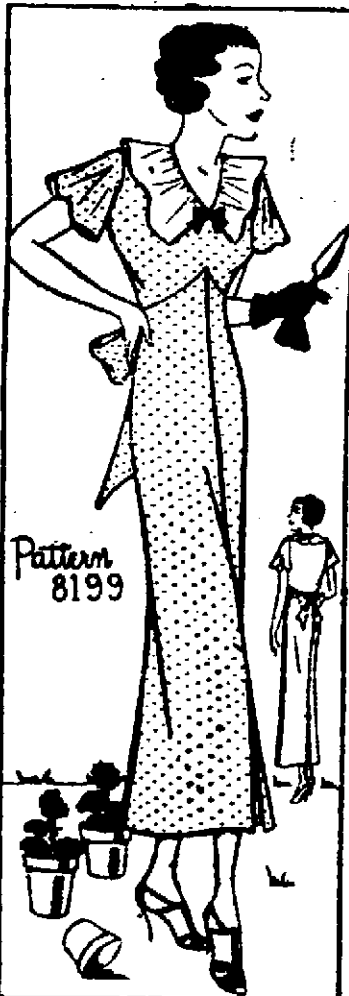

Taffeta registers in first styles that are being worn, seen as trimmings on coats in striped blouses, and a few dark dresses worn with cloth coats, besides millinery.

News of the Stone Age

Jewelry news—family stones are being brought out of safety vaults for bridal coiffures. When Mademoiselle Peretti de la Rocca married the Marquis de Levis and started the fashionable spring nuptial program, she wore, with a Lanvin gown of white satin and veil of real lace, a diadem of large real pearls set around with smaller but equal genuine diamonds.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

Pattern 8199

Attractive Afternoon Frock. Pattern 8199.—You can make your own summer dress of the style pictured here, quickly and easily, for the flaring sleeves and simple frill at neckline require no tailoring experience. The skirt too goes together with ease, because the inverted pleats at front and back are alike. The tie ends are inserted in the side seams and make a nice finish for the dress.

A dotted percale is shown in the sketch but white ground with green figure is suggested with a collar of organdie. Or a dark blue voile, with orange or white dots would be very charming in this design, combined with white handkerchief linen, voile or organdie for the collar.

Designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 28 requires 4 yards of 35 inch material with 1/2 yard contrasting. Ribbon bow requires 1/2 yard.

How will YOUR GARDEN GROW?

FOR many of us who have only dabbled in the soil, a bright row of fragrant flowers will always hold the greater charm, yet there are good reasons why the kitchen garden is winning a place in the sun.

A foremost industrialist says that the home-grown vegetables are an economic need; a correspondence school is teaching how to make the backyard garden pay; and the producers and purveyors of garden accessories are making it easier for you to coax from the good earth either hunger-satisfying foods or blooms that fill the soul.

Read the advertisements in this newspaper for up-to-the-minute gardening news. They supplement the information provided by our own writers; they feature new implements or new services and tell you where to secure most of the things the modern garden needs.

The advertisements in this newspaper are signed by merchants and manufacturers who have reputations for fine quality, fair prices and square dealing. The things they sell will help you save money and have more success with your garden.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 29.—Nervous and erratic price movements characterized trading in the stock market today and the trend generally pointed downward.

Mild irregularity and dullness was the rule in the first hour or so. Then there was a rather sharp selling flurry which dropped quotations in most categories 1 to 2 or more points. The ticker tape got behind

He Offered Forged Checks, Is Arrested

William Ten Eyck of Southampton, arrested Saturday as he attempted to pass an alleged forged check to Rose & Gorman Store.

Judge Culliton held him in custody—held for grand jury.

William Ten Eyck, 28, of Southampton, came to Kingston early last week and as he was in need of funds he offered the National Water Company Bank where he helped himself to several blank checks, he told police officers. Later he filled out the checks for various amounts and made several unsuccessful attempts to have them cashed, the last attempt leading to his arrest on Saturday in the Rose & Gorman Store.

At police headquarters Ten Eyck made a statement telling of his activities while in Kingston. He was arrested on a charge of attempted forgery.

This morning in police court he pleaded guilty to the charge but the judge informed him that he had no jurisdiction to accept such a plea and Ten Eyck then waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury.

According to Ten Eyck's statement, which he told Judge Culliton was true, he had first attempted to cash a forged check cashed by H. H. Merritt which refused to cash it. He made another attempt in the L. S. Winne store of Wall street where they also refused to cash the check, and the third attempt, which led to his arrest was in the Rose & Gorman store.

The check he offered in the department store was for $10.50 and signed with the name of "H. V. Barnes."

Judge Culliton in holding Ten Eyck for the grand jury informed him that bail would be fixed by the county judge.

The cooperation and quick work of the police department is largely responsible for the detection and capture of Ten Eyck. Some time ago the police department warned Kingston merchants that an individual was forging checks on banks in other cities in the state and that this individual might try to cash them in Kingston.

Mr. Gorman, alerted by other merchants, was warned, and when Ten Eyck presented his check, the police were immediately notified, and within a few minutes had arrived, searched the man and found the checks. The quick action of the police officials and the vigilance of the merchants bodes no good for others who intend a like procedure in the future.

Schryvers Lose Opener, 3-1, To Hamilton A. C. Sunday

More than 400 baseball fans took advantage of the sunny weather to see the Schryver All Stars open their season Sunday afternoon at the Kingston Fair Grounds against the Hamilton A. C. one of New York's outstanding clubs, which proved superior to the lumbermen, 3-1.

Lack of batting practice, Manager John Ashdown said, caused the downfall of the Schryvers, who were prevented by inclement weather the past week from drilling for their inaugural which saw them go to the plate against Eddie Homowitz, East Side twirler, who has four victories to his credit as the result of yesterday's drill. Homowitz registered 11 strikeouts.

Opposing the bespectacled finger with a world of stuff on the ball was Bill Thomas, the young Kingstonian awaiting a call from Springfield of the Northeastern League. He was nicknamed for nine hits by the visitors. Schryvers got off on the right foot as far as ceremonies were concerned. Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman tossed out the first ball as Abe Lipgar, local photographer stood by and recorded the thing on film. Prior to going to the box, the mayor and William C. Schryver were photographed. There was a concert by the East Kingston Band.

Although Homowitz was a bit wild at times, he came through very well in the pinches and seldom did it look like a scoring position for Kingston. The lumbermen made their only run in the fifth inning when Joe Hoffman, who walked, trotted home on Charles Tiano's grounder to first.

Hamilton kept at Thomas's delivery all though the game, connecting for at least one safety in six of the nine innings. The visitors broke up the ball game in the ninth inning with two runs, one by Rosenblum and the other by Montay.

The Schryvers hope for good weather this week so they may get in some drills with the stick in preparation for the Murray Hill Club next Sunday at the Fair Grounds.

George Keene, assistant coach and scorekeeper for Kingston, says that any pitcher coming from East Kingston of Longmire is a ball player. K. H. S. baseball team was in the past seen to bear out the truth in this statement.

It's a good thing for the Fair Grounds that William C. Schryver who backs the Schryver All Stars, is a lumber dealer. For the first time in years, the bleachers and the ticket booth are being repaired. Saturday, the ticket booth probably received its second coat of paint in its history. It is now white with a red roof.

Next Saturday, the variety tangles her old rival, Toughhouse. The game is called for 2:30 at the Fair Grounds.

Kingston Netmen Smashed Out First Victory at St. Stephens

Five members of the Kingston tennis team played for the first time, quickly subdued his rival, Joseph of St. Stephens, by scores of 6-1, 4-2, proving his mettle in match play and winning a surprisingly easy victory for Kingston. Outrigger played like a veteran and at all times his terrific service stood him in good stead so that Joseph was bewildered by the fast balls popping at him. The St. Stephens player never got the chance to get going.

The first doubles match found R. Hancock and Fowler pitted against Burgevin and Bush, and was the longest match of the day, a three set affair which was finally taken by the St. Stephens pair after long and spectacular play. Scores were 6-3, 7-3, 6-3. The college boys managed to take the first set in easy fashion and played well into the second set before the Kingston pair could find their stride. Came after game went by and a break in Bush's service finally gave the Kingston players the opportunity they wanted to take the second set. After a brief rest the third set went quickly to the St. Stephens players, they having again found the court, and the Kingston players lacking sufficient practice were apparently tiring rapidly.

Number two doubles were played between S. Hancock and Strong for Kingston and LeFever and Smyth of St. Stephens, and proved just a practice affair for the Kingston team which at all times had the play well in hand and tried out stroking. Scores were 6-1, 6-3.

A return match is expected and both teams rapidly rounding into shape, the Kingston netmen expect much stronger opposition the next time the players clash.

Get the Life-Saving Protection of the Golden Ply

HAPPY, carefree conversation changed to breathless terror. Beautiful new cars turned into hideous wrecks. Nerves shattered. All because someone trusted to luck... neglected to take the proper precaution against blow-outs.

Don't gamble on tires. Know that the tires on your car will give you real blow-out protection. For today, due to high-powered motors and whirling revolutions of small, modern wheels, the heat generated inside the tire is terrific. Rubber and fabric begin to separate. A tiny blister forms and grows—until BANG! A blow-out!

To protect you from these blow-outs, every new Goodrich Safety Silvertown has the amazing Life-Saver Golden Ply. This remarkable invention resists intense heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus, blisters don't form inside the tire. The great, unseen cause of blow-outs is prevented before it begins.

Racing daredevils tested out the Golden Ply at breakneck speeds, on the world's fastest track. Not one blow-out. Similar tires without the Life-Saver Golden Ply failed at one-third the distance the Golden Ply Silvertowns were run.

Freedom from blow-out fears! Months of extra mileage! In Goodrich Silvertowns with the Life-Saver Golden Ply you get both—at no more cost than other standard tires. Get a set of Goodrich Silvertowns today.

This helps explain why the Goodrich Company complies fully with the tire manufacturers' industry code.

With The Walker Cuppers — Marston

Putts Hold Philadelphian's Fate—But He's Always Near Par

Editor's Note: This is the eighth of a series of articles on the careers and personalities of the eight members of America's 1934 Walker cup golf team which meets the British at St. Andrews May 11-12.

By SID FEDER

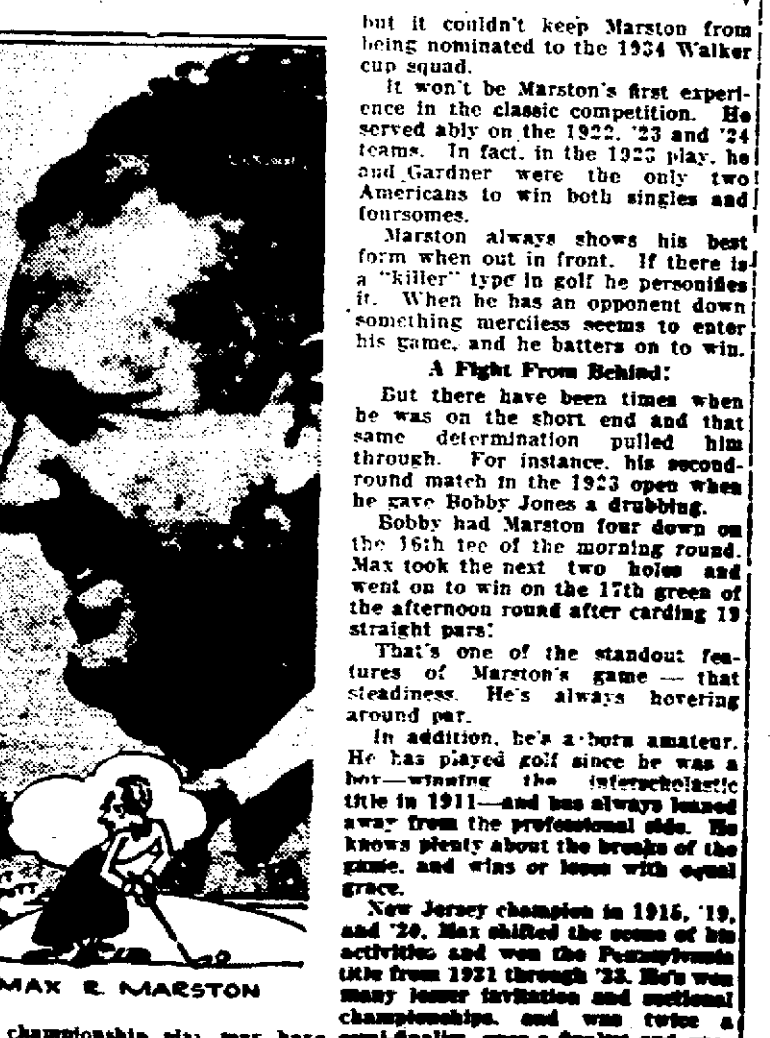

Philadelphia (P).—As his putting game has gone, so, too, down through his years of links competition, have gone the golfing fortunes of Max R. Marston, who returns to the American Walker cup team and international play this year after a decade's absence.

Steady and powerful on his long game and consistently good with his irons, nevertheless the 41-year-old former national amateur titlist has either gone over the top or taken the short end, time after time, on the vagaries of his putts.

Two examples of how green shots made or broke him on the links are typical of Marston's game.

There was the 50-footer they still talk of which he sank to break the going heart of Jess Sweetser and take the national title on the 34th green at Flommoor in 1923.

They Do Come Back: At the other extreme was the six-inch shot he dubbed at Detroit in the 1915 championship. It happened on the 36th green, his semi-final encounter with Bob Gardner, and enabled Gardner to pull up into a duckhook—he was at the next hole. And so it has come—up or down a made or a missed putt.

MAX R. MARSTON

But it couldn't keep Marston from being nominated to the 1934 Walker cup squad.

It was Marston's first experience in the classic competition. He served ably on the 1922, '23 and '24 teams. In fact, in the 1923 play, he and Gardner were the only two Americans to win both singles and foursomes.

Marston always shows his best form when out in front. If there is a "killer" type in golf he personifies it. When he has an opponent down something merciless seems to enter his game, and he batters on to win.

A Fight From Behind: But there have been times when he was on the short end and that same determination pulled him through. For instance, his second-round match in the 1923 open when he gave Bobby Jones a drubbing.

Bobby had Marston four down on the 16th tee of the morning round. Max took the next two holes and went on to win on the 17th green of the afternoon round after carding 19 straight pars.

That's one of the standout features of Marston's game—that steadiness. He's always hovering around par.

In addition, he's a born amateur. He has played golf since he was a boy—studying the intercollegiate title in 1911—and has always looked away from the professional side. He knows plenty about the tricks of the game, and wins or loses with equal grace.

Senators, Indians and Yanks Win, Cubs, Giants Bow in National Tilts

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Editor.

The dramatic shake-up of the Washington lineup appears to have paid off, as the Senators defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 7-1 in the deciding run of the season.

Although only one game of the season was played, the Senators' victory was a significant one, as it marked the first time since 1901 that the team had won a game.

The Senators' victory was a result of a combination of factors, including a strong pitching performance by the team's ace pitcher, and a timely home run by the team's star player.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Another chapter in the career of John "Blondy" Ryan was written when Manager Ben Terry of the Giants took time out after the opening game of the National League season to remark: "Blondy is our second baseman until further notice."

If you didn't know it was actual fact, you would be inclined to laugh at the story of the boy from London, who had just arrived in New York, and was a bit of a puzzle to the Giants' manager.

Baseball men consider Ryan just a short minor league prospect, a lad with lots of college spirit, but not much else, before Terry took him over. They continued to think as he stepped nonchalantly into the great Travis Jackson's shoes last season and told the Giants they were on top to stick. That was in the spring.

"Ryan will fold when the going gets tough," said the "wise guys." Blondy not only kept up his great work but when he was spiked one day at the Polo Grounds and forced out of action for a couple of weeks, the Giants went into their own serious slump of the 1933 campaign. It was his famous telegram to Terry: "They cannot beat us. En route."

J. C. Ryan, that headlined his return to the game in the west, with a shinguard to protect his injured leg, and the end of the giant morbid.

A Hard Man to Down.
Most everyone recalls how Ryan rose to emergency during the world series, how he was tried during the winter by the folks down east and came bounding into the spring training camp full of energy and enthusiasm.

"What can you do with a guy like that?" Terry asked, as he watched Ryan romping around at Miami Beach. "He comes in a week ahead of time and is willing to spend his own money. If necessary, to get an early start."

Then things turned dark for Blondy. His father killed himself. The youngster sped home by airplane. Recovering from this shock, Blondy returned to camp to find his job gone. Jackson was the Giants' regular shortstop again, due to a remarkable come-back.

A less buoyant or courageous spirit might have been crushed by this double blow. If his heart was heavy, Blondy's smile kept it hidden. He buckled down to whatever Bill Terry wanted him to do. He paid tribute to Jackson.

"If I had to lose my regular job, I'd be the one guy I don't mind seeing in there," Blondy said the day he returned to Miami Beach. "I'm not discouraged."

He Comes Through.
"Ryan couldn't last. He's back where he belongs now, on the bench." Thus carped the critics but not for long. A seemingly trivial accident put Ryan back in the regular second baseman out of action. Ryan took over his job along the exhibition route but the Giants were losing steadily and Blondy looked none too good.

"Without Critz, the Giants will be seriously handicapped." So warned the camp followers as the opening of the season approached. And so, to make a long story short, Ryan started the championship race, played sensationally and "is our second baseman until further notice."

The truth about Ryan is that he has the happy faculty of doing his best under pressure. Neither a great fielder nor a great batsman, he comes through when it counts and when the going is toughest. What more can the critics ask?

Bouts Headlining Boxing This Week

New York, April 30.—Freddie Miller, National Boxing Association featherweight title-holder, and Vince Dundee, middleweight king, stake their championships in 15-round bouts this week.

Miller, clever southpaw from Cincinnati, tangles with Paul Dazzo of Chicago in the headline of Louisville's annual derby-boxing show Friday, while Dundee, who makes his home in Newark, will meet Al Diamond of Paterson, N. J., in Diamond's home town Thursday. Both champions figure to win handily.

Otherwise the national boxing schedule for the week is marked by a ten-round match in Madison Square Garden here Friday night between Walter Neusel of Germany and Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, an engagement that may determine what the future holds for the blonde Teuton heavyweight. If he wins, Neusel may be given a chance to meet the winner of the forthcoming title match between Primo Carnera and Max Baer.

Another bout of more than average interest will send Young Terry, Trenton, N. J., "buzz saw," against Young Corbett of Fresno, Calif., former welterweight champion in San Francisco tonight. Corbett is aiming at the middleweight crown.

winning, Herrick ran off a high of 12. Cave's best effort was 3. Tonight Reuben Lewis and Johnny Whitaker will meet.

WALKER CUP TEAM
Arrives In Scotland

St. Andrews, Scotland, April 30. (AP)—The American Walker cup team drove 1,143 golf balls into the ocean on their trip across the Atlantic. Today Captain Francis Outmet and his mates prepared to start practice over the St. Andrews world-famous links where the mortality rate for golf pellets, although high, wouldn't be quite so excessive.

The team of nine completed the eastward crossing last night. Tired but confidently looking forward to the international matches May 11 and 12, they arrived at this ancient golfing center shortly before midnight.

Henry Gullen, secretary of the royal and ancient club of St. Andrews, ruling body of British golf, met the visitors at Londonderry and escorted them to St. Andrews.

Driving practice off a special mat on deck kept the team members in shape on the trip across even though the cost in golf balls did go over the 1,100 mark.

Rienzo to Friction.
The Rienzo A. C. will practice at Harbuck Park Tuesday evening, starting at 6:15 o'clock.

East Conceded Edge Because Of Cavalcade

Actual racing is the last remaining for the Kentucky Derby, so until tomorrow, at least, the East must concede the edge to the West.

Derby because of Cavalcade's record-breaking triumph in the Chesapeake stakes at Havre de Grace.

Cavalcade ran the mile and sixteenth in 1:17.3, breaking the track record by two-fifths of a second. Mrs. I. D. Smeane's Eligible previously had equaled the track record of 1:17.4 for the mile and sixteenth at Havre de Grace.

Other eastern eligibles which raced last Saturday were Mrs. Frank J. Heller's Agrarian and Alfred J. Vanderbilt's Discovery, which finished second and third respectively behind Cavalcade and J. H. Leuchman's Speedometer and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Ivy Hill, which finished second and third behind Mrs. Smeane's Eligible.

It is a pity that the plan hasn't, can't and never will be developed profitably. I mean the moving-to-the-country bug.

Steve Bolton was attacked by the bug. Steve had become fed up on city life. He was a bachelor, young and handsome, and was forever chasing about from party to party to dinner, to theater, or any other of the dozen places where handsome and eligible young bachelors are welcomed.

Steve was fed up. He wanted a breath of fresh air; wanted to get up with the sun, drink in the crisp morning air, tend to the chickens and catch the 7:30 train to town and his broker's office.

He wanted to spend his evenings seated comfortably before a cozy fire, get in some good reading, go to bed at nine o'clock and sleep the sleep of the just.

Also, he wanted to economize. The cost of living in town wasn't giving Steve much of an opportunity to save for rainy days.

This plan of Steve's was swell. Too bad it couldn't work. Steve talked the idea over with Jim McDewitt.

Jim had tried the same thing once, but for some unknown reason was back in his city apartment. Jim approved of Steve's idea without a moment's hesitation.

"Great scheme. You'll like it, Steve, out there. Fine way to live. Fact is, I'll have the missus buy her eggs from you. You can bring them in every morning. Help you get started."

Steve's dreams soared. He pictured himself laying aside a tidy sum from the profits on his eggs. Good scout, Jim.

Steve also called on Rus Whitcomb. Rus and his wife had tried the living-in-the-country idea, too.

And Rus, like Jim, approved and applauded. Sure, he'd buy all the eggs Steve could raise.

Fresh eggs from the country! Boy, nothing could be better. Later that same night Jim McDewitt called Rus Whitcomb on the telephone and the two of them held a gleeful conversation.

So old Steve had got the bug, eh? Well, let him find out for himself. Won't do him any harm to get stung. He'd never rest till he got the crawling out of his system anyhow.

Besides, it was comforting to know there were other fish grabbing at that same live-cheaply-in-the-country bait.

On the following Sunday, Steve chartered a drive-your-own car and motored out in the country. Along toward mid-afternoon he chanced upon a little place in the town of Medvale that seemed to suit his exact purpose.

There was a white house with green blinds and a picket fence around the front lawn, in which a half dozen shade trees reared themselves. Behind the house there was a barn, several outbuildings and a rather large henery.

THE HEN-MAN

By R. H. WILKINSON

There exists in America a certain type of person who, born and raised in a city apartment, possesses what is known in the vernacular as a yen to own a small place in the country, firmly believing that he can buy a few chickens, raise a few vegetables and live there, commuting to and from his metropolitan job, for about one-third the cost of existence in his city apartment.

This is a splendid idea, especially that part about living one-third as cheaply as in the city. There is, for example, the matter of fresh air, fresh dairy products, plenty of space to move around in, freedom from the bustle and bustle of city life.

It's a pity that the plan hasn't, can't and never will be developed profitably. I mean the moving-to-the-country bug.

Steve Bolton was attacked by the bug. Steve had become fed up on city life. He was a bachelor, young and handsome, and was forever chasing about from party to party to dinner, to theater, or any other of the dozen places where handsome and eligible young bachelors are welcomed.

Steve was fed up. He wanted a breath of fresh air; wanted to get up with the sun, drink in the crisp morning air, tend to the chickens and catch the 7:30 train to town and his broker's office.

He wanted to spend his evenings seated comfortably before a cozy fire, get in some good reading, go to bed at nine o'clock and sleep the sleep of the just.

Also, he wanted to economize. The cost of living in town wasn't giving Steve much of an opportunity to save for rainy days.

This plan of Steve's was swell. Too bad it couldn't work. Steve talked the idea over with Jim McDewitt.

Jim had tried the same thing once, but for some unknown reason was back in his city apartment. Jim approved of Steve's idea without a moment's hesitation.

"Great scheme. You'll like it, Steve, out there. Fine way to live. Fact is, I'll have the missus buy her eggs from you. You can bring them in every morning. Help you get started."

Steve's dreams soared. He pictured himself laying aside a tidy sum from the profits on his eggs. Good scout, Jim.

Steve also called on Rus Whitcomb. Rus and his wife had tried the living-in-the-country idea, too.

And Rus, like Jim, approved and applauded. Sure, he'd buy all the eggs Steve could raise.

Fresh eggs from the country! Boy, nothing could be better. Later that same night Jim McDewitt called Rus Whitcomb on the telephone and the two of them held a gleeful conversation.

So old Steve had got the bug, eh? Well, let him find out for himself. Won't do him any harm to get stung. He'd never rest till he got the crawling out of his system anyhow.

Besides, it was comforting to know there were other fish grabbing at that same live-cheaply-in-the-country bait.

On the following Sunday, Steve chartered a drive-your-own car and motored out in the country. Along toward mid-afternoon he chanced upon a little place in the town of Medvale that seemed to suit his exact purpose.

There was a white house with green blinds and a picket fence around the front lawn, in which a half dozen shade trees reared themselves. Behind the house there was a barn, several outbuildings and a rather large henery.

The place was not more than a 15-minute walk from the railroad station, yet its remoteness from the traveled highway was far enough to make it ideal.

ADVERTISE IN THE FREEMAN AND REAP THE REWARDS

After failing to solve the mystery himself, he contacted a neighbor and was told that the bodies were at this time of year usually interested in raising a family.

Steve thought this was great. He went home, gathered together all his spare eggs and put one of his hens to set.

The others he locked up in a barren henhouse to "break up" their family raising notions.

At the end of two weeks—out of the three dozen eggs Steve had set, hatched.

The young ones were just what he needed. He promptly turned his neighbor, to display the result of his tireless efforts, and was told that five of the eight chicks were roosters, which wasn't so good.

It was about this time that monthly bills began to arrive at the new farm, and after an evening of intense figuring Steve discovered that the cost of electric lights, cooking gas, telephone and other incidentals of livelihood was quite as much, if not more, than the cost of the same conveniences in town.

It was two days after this that Steve learned, much to his disappointment, that the "fresh" cream, milk and butter which he had been having left at his door each morning were shipped out of Boston on the night previous and distributed in the country by a chain dairy products company.

Augmenting these startling revelations, Steve came to the conclusion that getting up with the sun every morning wasn't such a swell idea, especially if it happened to be a rainy day or if the air wasn't bracing because of the humidity.

He found also that the long quiet evenings were more or less palling once you got used to them, and that a month of reading had brought him up to date on current literature.

In fact, Steve began to know a longing for a fling at city life, for an evening at a night club or trip to the theater or a gay dinner party.

Startlingly, he discovered that, after all, farming was a business, and unless you devoted your entire time to it, it was pretty difficult to make it pay.

Which, incidentally, when you look at the thing squarely, is quite true of almost any business.

To add to all this, Steve one day awoke to the fact that Jim and Rus, who had had their fling of commuting from the country, were giving him what is known as the merry ha ha.

They had, in a manner of speaking, put up a job on him.

They wanted to see him get stung. And when he finally admitted that this country idea was a lot of bludge they would be all set to enjoy the situation with crude and raucous guffaws.

This knowledge was disturbing. Steve's ears burned at thoughts of it. And in the end he vowed to tell the instigators of the joke, and turn, if possible, the tables.

Thus minded, Steve on the day following brought as usual his half dozen fresh eggs to the conviving rascals who posed as friends and advisers, suggesting on delivery that, in view of the fact that eggs were scarce these days and because these from Medvale were strictly fresh, the recipients of the daily half dozen pay a little more than the amount asked at the corner delicatessen for less fresh hen fruit.

Jim and Rus agreed readily enough. Of course, fresh eggs were worth more money.

What was more, they were eager and anxious to give Steve a helping hand.

A week later Steve moved back to his city apartment and with a great feeling of relief settled once more into the comfortable routine to which he was accustomed.

Open Scout Camp At Cairo on July 8

The camp committee for the Water-Green Scout Council, has fixed on Sunday, July 8, as the day for opening Camp Half-Moon, the Scout camp near Cairo, for the season.

It has been decided to have three camping periods this year, two of one week each and one of two weeks. The first period will be from July 8 to 15; the second from July 15 to 22 and the third from July 22 to August 5.

Lawrence Cahill, physical training instructor in the Saugerties schools, will again be camp director and Stuart Parks of Springfield College, will again have charge of the water front work. This makes the fourth year at camp for each of these popular leaders.

Other leaders and counselors will be announced later.

Each troop in the Water-Green Council has been given a quota for camp attendance this year and Scout Executive Wright says that a number of troops have already announced that they expect to exceed their quota. The camp will accommodate 80 boys a week.

Follows giving details of the camp and other information are now being prepared at the Boy Scout office on Fair street and should be in the hands of the leaders of the various troops by the end of this week.

Our Growing Population.

The following births have been reported to the board of health:

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Turk, 209 Second avenue, a daughter, Delores Merlene, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bechler of 425 Albany avenue, a daughter, Diane Edwina, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wolven of Saugerties, a son, Gerald Joseph, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Owings of 62 Linderman avenue, a son, Bryan, at Kingston Hospital.

Card Party Thursday.

A card party will be held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Donat Roux on Sylvester street, off East Chester street, to which the public is invited.

BEING POLITE

A small boy was asked to dine at the home of a distinguished professor. His mother questioned him on his return: "You are sure you didn't do anything that was not perfectly polite and gentlemanly?"

"Why, no, nothing to speak of."

"Then something did happen. Tell me at once," she demanded.

"Well, while I was trying to cut the meat it slipped off to the floor. But I made it all right," said the boy.

"What did you do?"

"Oh, I just said carefully, 'That's always the way with tough meat!'"

Difficult of Access

"She is very frigid in her manner," remarked Willie Washington.

"Perhaps," was the reply; "but she has a heart of gold."

"So I have been informed. But I am tired of trying to cross a conventional Chilchick pass in order to reach it."

Misunderstood

Two girls made a bet a few weeks ago that each could camp more men than the other. After ten days they met again.

Blond—How are you coming?

Brunette—Not so well. I have not been able to date anybody but some old married men. But I call them misunderstood husbands.

The Parrot

Young Man—Why do you keep a parrot?

Very Old Man—Because I like to hear it talk.

The parrot is the only creature gifted with the power of speech that is content to repeat just what it hears without trying to make a long story of it.

ANYTHING

Minister—Do you promise to love, honor and cherish this woman?

Politician—Yes, whatever the platform is I subscribe to it.

Getting Even

"Do you approve of the restriction of crops?"

"Yes, sir," answered Farmer Corn-tassel. "Wall Street has made us trouble enough and the only way for us to get even is to organize some pools and corners and things on our own account."

Disappeared

"The father of that woman playing the piano paid out a large sum on her musical education."

"What did she do with it?"

"What, the money?"

"No; with the musical education."

Still Alluring

Grandfather—So you love Miss Flirty of the Frivolity?

Grandson—Yes, grandpa. I hope you do not object.

Grandfather—How can I object? I loved her myself at your age.

Critical

"That musical young man's voice is remarkable for its volume, isn't it?" remarked Mrs. Blythe.

"Volume," echoed her husband; "when he gets to telling you what he knows it's a whole library."

A Natural Mistake

Woman—I want to register the death of my husband.

Registrar—Did you have a doctor?

Woman—Oh, no. He was just an honest bricklayer.

GOOD REACH

"There is something about Fred that draws me to him."

"So I noticed last night in the conservatory."

But it served the purpose.

"That was a most considerate speech of Senator Blanka," said a statesman.

"I didn't hear it."

"That's just it. Neither did I. I understand he delivered it in an undertone so as not to wake anybody."

HOW

LETTER "C" OF ALPHABET TOOK ON PRESENT FORM—The letter C, which stands for two hundred sounds in our language, was in the beginning a symbol for a hundred and as our "hard" g. This was the Semitic gimel and the Greek gamma. The form of the letter was developed from a rounded form of the early Cretan and Chalcidian alphabets.

The g sound, or voiced velar stop, was changed by the Romans to the unvoiced stop, possibly as the result of Etruscan influence. The Etruscan alphabet, however, sprang from the same source as the Greek. Finally the new symbol C was used for the sound and the letter of rounded K as representing the unvoiced stop sound. Later influences caused the addition of the second sound, the unvoiced sibilant, which is identical with the letter S. This came as a development of the sound which had formerly been represented by the letter S. Other uses of the letter C, such as the redundant ck, are grammatical developments of early and modern English.—Chicago Tribune.

How the Ever Popular Broom Is Manufactured

The material used in manufacturing the ordinary and family household broom is brown corn, a variety of sorghum grown extensively in the Mississippi valley and particularly in Kansas and Oklahoma. The broom corn is graded, the rougher portions, called under-working, being tied (with wire) first around the foot of the handle; the medium quality, called self-working, next, and then the outer layer of the best quality, called hush. The broom thus formed is conical. It is given its usual flattened shape by squeezing it in a vise and, while thus held, sewing it through and through with wire. A special broom for heavy use has a metal band placed around it while in the vise, and is sewn with wire through the band, the handle being brought down low enough to be circled with this wire stitching.

How Horse Names Are Chosen

The owners submit names to the Jockey Club Register. All names are subject to the approval of the stewards of the Jockey club. No name which has been used within the past fifteen years can be duplicated. No word can be used which might be construed as sacrilegious; all names of famous persons are barred, except with written permission. The primary idea in naming a thoroughbred is that the cognomen should be suitable for a noble animal and that, if possible, it should have some connection philologically, historically, or practically with sire and dam, or at least with one of them.

How Jacobins Received Name

Jacobins was the most famous of the clubs of the first French revolution. When the states-general assembled at Versailles in 1789 it was formed and called the Club Breton. On the removal of the court and national assembly to Paris it acquired importance and rapidly increased. It adopted the name of Societe des Amis de la Constitution, but as it met in a hall of the former Jacobin (Dominican) convent in Paris it was called the Jacobin club. After the fall of the monarchy in September, 1792, it called itself Societe des Jacobins, Amis de la Liberte et de l'Egalite.

How Eskimos Told Time

The Smithsonian Institution says that before influenced by the advent of white civilization the Eskimo had neither a systematized method of telling time nor a monetary system, or its equivalent. They were, of course, cognizant of the phases of the moon, as are almost all primitive peoples, and of the difference in the length of the day in summer and winter, but this was about as far as their knowledge of chronometry went. As for money, barter was the only method of exchange known to them.

How Possessions Are Ruled

The territories, and also the Virgin Islands, are controlled by the Department of the Interior through the office of the chief clerk. The Philippine Islands and Puerto Rico are governed by the bureau of insular affairs of the War department. American Samoa and Guam are governed by the Navy department, through the office of island governments. The Canal Zone is a military reservation and is administered by the War department, through the independent office of the Panama canal.

How to Break in Pipe

A mild tobacco should be smoked slowly in it. The pipe should not be lit with a lighter, as it has more tendency to burn the inside of the bowl than when lighted with a match. The tobacco should be taken out after each smoking and the pipe left dry. It is essential that the pipe be allowed to rest a day after being smoked. A person should have at least two pipes in order that he can allow the one to remain smoked for a day.

How Army Is Made Up

The military definition of an army does not relate directly to the number of men. To constitute an army, an aggregation of troops must include each necessary branch—infantry, cavalry, artillery, commissary, medical units and their accessories. An army may be comparatively small or very large in numbers.

Glee Clubs' Concert Program Here May 9

The numbers that Miss Josephine Lorraine, leading soprano of the Palmyra Grand Opera Company, who is to be the soloist at the concert to be given by the Music Club of Albany, will be the Mendelssohn song of "The Echo" and the "Ave Maria" of Newburgh at the Municipal Auditorium on May 9. FRANK HEMSTREET HONORED BY MUSIC CLUB OF ALBANY

The many friends of Frank Hemstreet, teacher of singing in both New York and Albany, here in Kingston will be pleased to learn that he has been recently especially honored in Albany. At the thirty-sixth subscription concert of the Monday Musical Club Chorus of Albany, Dr. Elmer A. Tidmarsh, conductor, made according to the reception of the song "By the Bend of the River" by Clara Edwards, arranged for group singing by Frank Hemstreet, who was given an enthusiastic reception. Dr. Tidmarsh called upon Mr. Hemstreet, who was in the audience to receive the applause given to his work.

That proved to be a much more difficult manner of choosing the program than was expected, for the audience was most enthusiastic over practically all of the club numbers at each concert. So the men and their conductor, Robert Williams of Newburgh, added their preference to the weight of the audience's opinion, with the result that a program of rare beauty, richness, romance and power has been chosen. The Amphion Glee Club will sing
